We both obeyed him to the letter, and I saw him pass something from the bollow of the hand that held his stick into the palm of the captain's, which closed upon it instantly.

"And now that's done," said the blind man: and at the words he suddenly left hold of me, and, with incredible accuracy and nimbleness, skipped out of the parlor and into the road, where, as I stood motionless, I could hear his stick go tap-tap-tapping into the dis-

Something must speedily be resolved upon; and it occurred to us at last to go forth together and seek help in the neighborng hamlet. No sooner said than done. Bare-headed as we were, we ran out at once in the gathering evening and the frosty fog.

The hamlet lay not many hundred yards away, though out of view, on the other side of the next cove; and, what greatly encouraged me, it was in an ite direction from that whence the blind man had made his appearance, and whither he had presum returned. We were not many minutes on the road, though we sometimes stopped to lay hold of each other and hearken. But there was no unusual cound-nothing but the low wash of the ripple and the croaking of the crows in the wood.

It was already candle-light when we eached the hamlet, and I shall never forget how much I was cheered to see the yellow shine in doors and windows; but that, as it proved, was the best of the help we were likely to get in that quarter. For-you would have ht men would have been ashamed of themselves-no soul would consen to return with us to the Admiral Benow. The more we told of our troues, the more-man, woman and child they clung to the shelter of their houses. The name of Capt. Flint, ugh it was strange to me, was well enough known to some there, and car-ried a great weight of terror. Some of the men who had been to field-work on the far side of the Admiral Benbow remembered, besides, to have seen several strangers on the road, and, taked away; and one at least had seen a little lugger in what we called Kitt's was a comrade of the captain's was heard.

Back we will go, the way we came, and small thanks to you big, hulking, chickenhearted men. We'll have that chest off among the hills. That was enough, open, if we die for it. And I'll thank and more than enough, for both of us you for that bag, Mrs. Crossley, to bring back our lawful money in."

Of course, I said I would go with my mother; and of course they all cried out at our foolhardiness; but even then not a man would go along with us. All they would do was to give me a loaded pistol, lest we were attacked; and to the empty chest; and the next we had promise to have horses ready saddled, in case we were pursued on our return; while one lad was to ride forward to the doctor's in search of armed assistance.

My heart was beating fiercely when we two set forth in the cold night upon this dangerous venture. A full moon was beginning to rise and peered redly through the upper edges of the fog. and this increased our haste, for it was plain, before we came forth again. that all would be bright as day, and our departure exposed to the eyes of any watchers. We slipped along the hedges, noiseless and swift, nor did we see or hear anything to increase our terrors, till, to our huge relief, the door of the Admiral Benbow had closed behind us.

I slipped the bolt at once, and we stood and panted for a moment in the dark, alone in the house with the dead captain's body. Then my mother got a candle in the bar, and, holding each other's hands, we advanced into the parlor. He lay as we had left him, on is back, with his eyes open, and one

"Draw down the blind, Jim," whispered my mother; "they might come and watch outside. And now," said she, when I had done so, "we have to get the key off that; and who's to touch it, I should like to know?" and she gave a kind of sob as she said the words. I went down on my knees at once.

On the floor close to his hand there was a little round of paper, blackened on the one side. I could not doubt that this was the black spot; and, taking it up, I found written on the other side, in a very good, clear hand, this short message: "You have till ten to-night." "He had till ten, mother," said I; and, inst as I said it, our old clock began striking. This sudden noise startled us shockingly; but the news was good, for it was only six. "Now, Jim." she said, "that key."

I felt in his pockets, one after another. A few small coins, a thimble and some thread and big needles, a emies began to arrive, seven or eight piece of pigtail tobacco bitten away at the end, his guily with the crooked handle, a pocket compass and a tinderbox, were all that they contained, and I front. The lobbies of the legislatures of this country control the country. The land is drunk with bribery! "Oh," says some one, "there's no need of talking against bribery by promise or by dollars, because every man has his price." I do not believe it. Even heathenism and the Dark Ages have furnished specimens of incorruptibility. A cadi of Smyrna had a case brought before him on trial. A man gave him 500 ducats in bribery. The case came on. The briber had many witnesses. The poor man on the other side had no witnesses. persuade me The president of the American congress during the American revolution, Gen. Reed, was offered 10,000 guineas by foreign commissioners if he would betray this country. He replied: "Gentlemen, I am a very poor man, but tell your king he is not rich enough to buy me." But why go so far, when you and I, if we move in honorable society, know men and women who by all the forces of earth and hell could not be bribed. They would no more be bribed than you would think of tempting an angel of light to exchange Heaven for the pit. To offer a bribe is villainy, but it is a very poor compliment to the man to whom it is offered.

I have not much faith in those peohamlet, and, from its effect upon the they are very often insulted, need to buccaneers, a signal to warn them of understand that there is something in their carriage to invite insult. There are men at Albany, and at Harrisburg, and at Washington, who would no more be approached by a bribe than a pirate boat with a few cutlasses would dare to attack a British man-of-war with two banks of guns on each side loaded to the touch-hole. They are incorruptible men, and they are the few men who are to save the city and save

Meanwhile, my advice is, keep out of politics unless you are invulnerable to this style of tempation. Indeed, if even you are naturally strong, you need religious buttressing. Nothing but the grace of God can sustain our public men and make them what we wish. I wish that there might come an old-fashioned revival of religion, that it might break out in congress and the legislatures and bring many of the leading republicans and democrats down on an anxious seat of repentence. That day will come, or mething better, for the Bible declares that kings and queens shall become nursing fathers and mothers to the church, and if the greater in authority, then certainly the less.

If there be large sums of money to b handled and the man is not sure of his own integrity, you have no right to run an unseaworthy craft in a hurriweakness or strength in the presence of a bad opportunity whether he is in a safe place. How many parents make an awful mistake when they put their boys in banking houses and stores and hops and factories and places of solemn trust without once discussing whether they can endure the temptation! You give the boy plenty o money, and have no account of it, and make the way down become very easy, and you may put upon him a pressure that he can not stand. There are men who go into position full of temptations, considering only that they are ucrative positions. An abbot wanted to buy a piece of ground and the owner would not sell it but the owner finally consented to let it to him until he could raise one crop, and the abbot sowed acorns, a erop of 200 years! And I tell you, young man, that the dishonesties which you plant in your heart and life will seem to be very insignificant, but they will grow up until they will overshadow you with horrible darkness, overshadow all time and all eternity. It will not be a crop for 200 years, but

and not because of the ten cents or the | 1 address many who have trust funds. and not because of the ten cents or the orange which you will give them. There is a great difference between rewarding virtue and making the profits thereof the impelling motive. That thereof the impelling motive. That man who is honest merely because "honesty is the best policy" is already a moral bankrupt.

My charge is to you, in all depariments of life, steer clear of bribery all of you. Every man and woman at some time will be tempted to do wrong for compensation. The bribe may not be offered in money. It may be offered in secial position. tilities Will Be Suspended. MADRID, Aug. 8 .- The cabinet couneil terminated after having completely approved the reply to the United States which, it is said, accepts the American conditions. The reply was telegraphed to Senor Ceon y Castillo, the Spanish ambassador to France, Saturday night, so that M. Cambon, the French ambassador at Vashington, will receive it Monday. The government is fully convinced hat the note will be satisfactory to e Washington government, and that suspension of hostilities will be its mediate consequence.

Senor Sagasta, the premier, has just concluded his conference with the queen regent. Her majesty approves the general lines of the reply of Spain to America's peace terms, which Senor Sagasta explained to her.

The reason for postponing the cabinet council until 6 o'clock Sunday evening was that the note was not yet fully drawn up. The government believes that the United States will ac cept Spain's answer which will cer tainly reach the white house by Tues day. As a consequence of the United States accepting the reply, hostilities will immediately afterwards be sus pended.

As the reply to the American term was only submitted to the queen re gent Sunday, all the reports of her ap proval Saturday of the American de mands are necessarily without foun a WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.-Although as yet without official confirmation of the report from Paris that the Spanish government has decided to accept the terms laid down by the United States as essential to the negotiation of a treaty of peace the officials here are proceeding under the conviction that the end has come and are giving attention to the steps to be taken next. In view of the delay in coming to this conclusion the idea was beginning to prevail that the Spanish government was about to enter a plea in abatement and that the answer would again be inconclusive. In this case the president was disposed to deal firmly with the issue; to give notice that our proposals were withdrawn, and to let again sued for peace the conditions would be more severe than those first laid down.
